THE "UNCLEAN" LEPER

Noting that the case of the two boys in Newark, N. J., who have contracted leprosy may safely be left to the authorities there, but that "the rest of us might improve the opportunity to revise some of our ideas about this disease," a New York editor writes further. "Our attitude toward it is a curious survival of earlier superstition. Just as we once regarded a lunatic as a person possessed of devils, we still regard a person with leprosy as a sort of social pariah, something to be shunned or spurned under foot. We have a name for him, 'leper' which carries with it a special odium. There is no sense or reason in all this. It is not because we fear contagion. In this climate we know the danger of contagion is very slight. In the light of modern science leprosy is a disease, like cancer or tuberculosis. Why can't we place the person afflicted with it in the same category as other diseased persons?"

If there is still any disposition to regard a leper as a pariah in more than a mere physical sense, as a person visited with punishment for evil doing, such a view calls for correction. But there is plenty of "sense" in shunning or isolating a leper, just as we prudently avoid contagion from tuberculosis. For what is more loathsome, more blighting, more hopeless than leprosy? "When a man shall have in the skin of his flesh a rising or bright spot, and the hair thereof is turned white, and it covereth him from his head even to his foot, he is a leper, and the priest shall pronounce him unclean, and he shall dwell alone." Even this ancient Jewish law was primarily based on sanitary and protective considerations, although to the word "unclean" may have been attached somewhat of a moral as well as a physical significance. Would the New York editor have our leper colony in Hawaii given up and no more rigid precautions against contagion be taken than in cases of tuberculosis?

SPANKED CHILDREN

Referring to a "to spank or not to spank" discussion, the New York World says: "Most of those interested take the anti-spanking side. At first this almost seems un-American. We have been accustomed to think that spanking improves the child, that each separate swoosh and whop of switch or hairbrush was in some vague way an act of patriotism, something pleasing in the sight of Washington, Jefferson and the Eighteenth Amendment. The more we find out about children the more we realize that their 'badness' has little to do with the moral sense."

At first even the nimble-witted reader wonders what possible connection there can be between spanking and the Eighteenth Amendment, but after reflection he begins to get a glimmering of the idea. Multitudes of persons who had been in the habit of "taking a little" to comfort them when they were low in spirit, or when they found their particular assortment of ailments rather harder to bear than usual, more or less unconsciously regard the interference of the Federal government, if not as a literal spanking or an actual paternalistic victim of the rod of correction, at least as treating like children persons long since attaining to years of discretion. As a matter of fact, it requires no vast play of the imagination to perceive in the emotions of such persons striking resemblances to the feelings of children resentful of punishment as arbitrarily inconsiderate.

Dr. Butler, president of Columbia University, told the French Academie des Sciences Morales et Politiques that no two nations have more in common than France and the United States. "True enough in a political sense, or in the matter of Republican ideals of government, but in rare language, law and institutions generally we are far more nearly akin to the English."

The New York boy who ran away from home so that he could see oranges growing and was found penniless two days later is now reported as having his wish gratified as the guest of several Florida newspapers. The boy is getting his tan and the newspapers are further glorifying their state—which is quite all right in both cases.

It is suggested that Robert M. La Follette, Jr., become a candidate for United States Senator from Wisconsin, but, though young, Mr. La Follette may be promising material, the process of passing the Senatorial or any other mantle from father to son is apt to be attended with difficulties.

A THOUGHT ABOUT ICE.

The slogan you see on the ice wagon, "Ice Saves Food" is very true, and there is no better economy than the money spent on ice. As I said once before, there is a temptation at times to try and make one ice last out a little longer, or perhaps with a little cool spell for a day or two, you try to economize by doing without ice. The mistake here is that food brought to you from your grocer or butcher comes off the ice, and during the time it is off the ice, it will begin to decompose rapidly in the warm weather. The ice helps to retain the actual structure of the food, and that is why it tastes so good, so "natural," when you eat it as it comes directly from the ice box. Food kept on ice then lasts for days, and thus fruits and meats that might otherwise be thrown out, retain their freshness, and flavor for days. Ice then is a great money saver.

However it is another side of the question that I want to talk about at this time.

In the cooler weather we find a number of respiratory ailments prevalent: coughs, colds, grippe, bronchitis and kindred troubles. In other words most of the ailments come by means of the air passages. However, in the warm or hot weather we find intestinal troubles more common in all ages, from young babies to aged persons. In babies there are intestinal disturbances that are responsible for much illness and many deaths, most cases in older persons, there is acute diarrhea and dysentery, and very many cases of ptomaine poisoning, all due to food.

More than two thousand years ago a Greek philosopher wrote regarding the Egyptians: "They believe that all diseases to which men are subject proceed from the food they use. They cleanse their interiors regularly."

We can't go quite that distance, but we can certainly agree with them to the extent that most of the ailments of hot weather are due to the injudicious use of foods. And the one big mistake that is made is allowing food to remain off the ice. Decomposition is set up so rapidly that intestinal disturbances more or less serious develop. Keep food on ice, not only for economy's sake, but more for safety's sake.

WHY

Cats and Witchcraft Have Been Associated.

The place of the cat in man's affection—and dislike—is interesting to trace and to contrast with the corresponding place of the dog, according to the Baltimore Sun.

Dogs have been honored as friends of man almost ever since he began to give vent to imaginative expression. Homer wrote of the dog of Odysseus (Ulysses), who was waiting to die of joy, as a heroic dog should, when his master returned from his years of wandering. If there was a cat in his household Odysseus took no account of it; and no one ever heard of a cat dying for joy or any other of the lofty human emotions sometimes attributed to dogs.

The cat was first recognized, not for its nobility, but as an appendage to domesticity, "the harmless, necessary cat"—necessary to keep the house free of rats and mice—while such praise as there was for domestic animals was bestowed on its natural enemy, the dog.

Cats have a certain air of mystery due to their build; their quietness, their habit of nocturnal prowling and a supernatural sort of dread that some people feel for them. The air of mystery accounts, perhaps, for the strange place that they have occupied in the history of the occult. They have always been associated with witchcraft and looked upon as sharing the demonic knowledge belonging to witches.

In spite of her nefarious reputation, however, the cat has found favor with a surprisingly large number of distinguished persons, many of them writers and philosophers, who have found in the cat's demeanor the most admirable qualities.

Among the French the animal seems to have been favored above others. Montaigne, Rousseau, Pierre Loti, Taine and Moliere were partial to cats observing and appreciating their neat and particular habits.

Why So Many Cities

Have to Be Rebuilt

Comparatively few people have yet realized that every progressive city in the United States not alone must be rebuilt, but that the rebuilding is now going on and gaining momentum each year, says Thrift Magazine.

It is a natural development that the better-to-do people should have their more modern homes first. Builders during the past few years have concentrated upon apartment houses and commercial structures. In some parts of a few of the larger cities the demand for residential and commercial buildings of the higher type may be nearly filled. New buildings in this class may now come along only as population increases.

But in any report on housing conditions we must not fail to review the condition in our obsolete dilapidated tenement districts everywhere. New housing must and will include the whole range—the demand for better homes of all classes of workers—before the volume of national building shows any permanent slowing down.

Why Crying Hurts Babies

Crying is hard work. When a baby squalls he uses up twice as much energy as when he is asleep. The work of the body, represented by what is called "metabolism," is doubled during crying.

If a baby cries every minute for 24 hours, it does an amount of work equivalent to lifting its own weight to the top of the Washington monument. Dr. John R. Murlin of Rochester, N. Y., has figured out. This seems extraordinary, but it indicates the rate of body growth in the young, says Hygeia.

The moral of this story is that if the child is to grow properly, he should not waste his energy in crying. A healthy, properly nourished baby cries very little.

Why the Pessimist Fails

Pity the poor pessimist. He has no friends anywhere. He is a man without a welcome anywhere. And it serves him right. Pessimism is not only unprofitable, but unsound. Things never turn out as badly as the pessimist predicts. Times are always better than the pessimist anticipates them. J. Pierpont Morgan declared many years ago that he had never known anybody who made money by losing faith in America. Mr. Morgan was in business life an optimist on America. He believed in it and had the courage to act on his belief.—Dallas News.

Why Fish Is Not Meat

The distinction between fish and meat grew up in the Catholic church. In the book of Acts it says, "Abstain from meats offered to idols, and from blood, and from things strangled." From the early days of the Latin church this passage was interpreted as referring only to the flesh, blood or marrow of such animals and birds as constitute flesh meat. Fish, mollusks, crabs, turtles, frogs and such cold-blooded creatures were not considered as coming under the injunction.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Why Hair Is Singed

Hair grows only from the roots. The hair itself is as lifeless as our finger nails. The theory of singeing hair to make it grow is based on the fact that the ends of the hair split and permit the oil to escape. Singeing, say the barbers, closes up these splits.

GAVE EXHIBITION OF PERFECT FAITH

Death of Christian Zulus to Be Deplored.

Those who read of the recent attempt of a party of Christian Zulus to repeat the miracle of the Red sea, as a result of which the children of Israel passed dryshod, may have smiled at first, but their smile could not have been of derision, for 50 of these simple people were drowned.

Christian mankind is told authoritatively that with perfect faith mountains can be moved. His remedied and life itself preserved. What faith could be more perfect than that which impelled these homeward-bound Christians of but a few years' standing to kneel down and pray, in unison, and then, after their headman had smitten the flood with an iron staff and commanded it to roll back, to advance bravely and firmly? It was sublime. One cannot help wishing that it might have been successful.

The Zulus are among the bravest, most faithful and most unselfish people in the world. Their savage virtues, so aptly portrayed by Sir Rider Haggard, formed a magnificent foundation for the application of Christianity. The first missionaries who visited Natal in the days of Chaka the Great, that talented monster, suffered acutely, both physically and mentally, but stuck heroically to their jobs. One recalls a story about Dingaan, Chaka's successor, he who later treacherously massacred the Boers under Rietveld. When warned that his sins would undoubtedly send him and his adherents to hell, he had a vast bonfire kindled, and then, when it was burning most fiercely, commanded a regiment of his younger warriors to "jump in that."

This he did, at a cost of three-fourths of its strength, to illustrate for the benefit of the missionaries just what their royal master would do to the fires of Gehenna.

Stuff like this was too good to go uncultivated, and the labor continued in this difficult vineyard until today most Zulus are Christians, believing implicitly in Holy Writ and all that is promised therein. Just why tragedy had to stalk hand in hand with absolute faith is no question to be discussed here, nor, it is thought, will divines attack it any too cheerfully. But in honor of that party of stalwart black men, whose savage theology once included no hereafter, no rewards or punishments, but who believed even then in "playing the game" to the end for the game's sake, bats may be lifted with propriety around the world.—Chicago Post.

$500,000,000 Cut in Coal
Cost by New Machinery

Cincinnati.—Mining men are looking forward to the time when the coal bill of the United States will be reduced $500,000,000 by the perfection of devices for mining coal with machinery. Edward J. O'Toole, general superintendent of the mines of the United States Coal and Coke company, in West Virginia and Kentucky, declared before the American Mining congress here.

Saying his company has just mined 115,000 tons by the new process, Mr. O'Toole continued: "This machine makes the use of explosives in the mine unnecessary and will reduce accidents. It undercuts the coal by chewing into it with steel teeth. Then the coal automatically falls down upon a self-loader. We expect this machine to reduce the cost of mining 30 per cent, and to cut the cost down $1 a ton, meaning a saving of $500,000,000."

Prisoners Spend Holiday at Home

One Had Been Model Prisoner, Other Was Anxious to Support Family, So Jail Sentences Are Reduced 3 and 14 Days Respectively.

A brief session of county court was held Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the court house with Judge Joseph M. Fowler presiding. The only business transacted was the reducing of two sentences on prisoners who were in jail so as to allow them to get home by July Fourth and celebrate.

William P. Cannon of Stony Hollow and New York, who was convicted of driving a motor vehicle while intoxicated, as a second offense, had his sentence reduced five days so as to allow him to be home by July Fourth. Mr. Cannon's mother operates a boarding house at Stony Hollow during the summer months and his assistance is needed over the Fourth. District Attorney Traver asked the court to reduce the sentence so as to allow Mr. Cannon to return home Wednesday. Cannon was sentenced to jail for seven months and his time would expire on July 6. Since being in jail he had been a model prisoner and Mr. Traver said he believed that Cannon had profited by his past experience and had had time to think over the matter of trying to mix gasoline and liquor.

Warned of Holiday Liquor.
Judge Fowler after warning Cannon that over the Fourth was a dangerous time to be about if liquor was any attraction for him, and further that if he ever came before the court again it would mean more than a jail sentence, reduced the sentence to six months and 25 days which allowed Cannon to depart for home.

Howard Whittaker, who was sentenced to jail for three months by Judge Rosch, was also brought before the court and asked that he be given a chance to get out of jail. He offered to pay a fine rather than serve his term out. As the sentence of the court had been a straight jail sentence and made no provisions for a fine, this could not be done. Whittaker explained that he was married and had a family. He had a chance to get his family located provided he could assist in paying a portion of the rent for the place and that he desired to get his furniture and after settling his family, to get to work so that he could support them. As there was no chance of assisting his family while in jail, Judge Fowler reduced Whittaker's sentence 14 days to allow him to go out immediately. There was no objection on the part of District Attorney Traver to this reduction in sentence. There are still a couple of cases in which the defendants have not made payments as imposed by the court. In one case an extension of time has been granted and in order to give the defendant every opportunity to make good court was adjourned until July 22. If at that time the fine has not been paid a bench warrant will be issued and executed.

Important Waterway

The inner harbor navigation and industrial canal of New Orleans extends for over five miles from the Mississippi valley to Lake Pontchartrain. A concrete ship lock permitting the passage of 20,000-ton vessels will admit them to the gulf level of the inner harbor, from which there is a 9 by 14-foot channel through Lake Pontchartrain to the gulf, which it is expected will ultimately be substituted by a 30-foot channel. The canal adds about 11 miles to the waterfront. It was completed in 1923. It changes 96,000 acres of waste, low-value lands within the city limits to potential harbor frontage of high value.

What is a Balloon Tire?

THE announcements of two years or so ago defined a balloon tire as—

"A tire of large cross-sectional diameter having a thin, flexible side wall so it can be run at low enough air pressure to provide a soft air cushion between the car and the road."

That was the industry's ideal.

That was what the car owner was told he would get.

That is what the car owner does get in the U. S. Royal True Low-Pressure Balloon.

But he doesn't get it in all tires that carry the word "Balloon" on the side wall.

Some tires labeled Balloon wear out too fast when run soft, so they must be run at too high pressure to give ideal cushioning and comfort.

The makers of U. S. Royal Balloons have stuck to the original idea and ideal.

The U. S. Royal Balloon is built of Latex-treated Web Cord.

This provides the necessary strength and flexibility for low air pressure.

It also has the U. S. Low-Pressure Tread which distributes the weight evenly over the entire tread surface and eliminates early, uneven and unsightly tread wear.

It can therefore be run at low enough pressure for ideal cushioning without injury.

Many nice big round tires with the name "balloon" on the side wall can't.

Christy Circus Here on Monday

Famous Wild Animal Show Will Arrive Sunday—Big Street Parade an Interesting Feature—Animals Do Many Stunts.

Christy Brothers' big five ring trained animal show will come to Kingston Sunday, and on Monday will give two performances at the Kingston Fair Grounds at the foot of North Front street. There will be an elaborate parade in the morning.

The menagerie of Christy Brothers' animal show that is presented this year is one of interest and study for the lovers of both wild and domestic animals. It is said to be the greatest zoological collection ever brought together. It is an important department with Christy Brothers and it offers features of interest and wonder. In point of size as well as in rare and exclusive features it is beyond comparison with any other wild animal collection in the United States. Possessing many rare specimens of animal life not to be seen in any other collection, it is the most distinctive and valuable menagerie in the world.

All the animals are trained to do something out of the ordinary. A troupe of six performing elk is a newly added feature. For the first time two big collections of wolves have been made to perform. This is the first time these animals have ever been educated. Two different collections of black bears are also a newly added number. Three big groups of lions are introduced at different times and a big mixed collection of tigers, leopards, lions, with two dogs and a cat, is a remarkable scene. Elephants galore are also performing new stunts and all kinds of domestic animals do something that attract attention. Dogs, goats, sheep, rabbits, cats, rats, horses, ponies, and in fact every animal that can be collected is made to perform.

Naturalists, scientists and students will find many specimens of almost extinct types of animals, like the eland, the yak from the highlands of Tibet, the black vauk from South America, polar bears from Alaska and many other animals that will attract. The menagerie is not the only wonder of Christy Brothers' shows—they have a new three mile gorgeous parade every day, and a most dignified production of that famous Biblical event, "Noah and the Ark," with a company of over five hundred animals and people.

Early Names of Princeton

Princeton university was known as Nassau hall and the College of New Jersey, before it was finally located at Princeton. It opened in Elizabethtown in 1747, removed to Newark in 1747 and to Princeton in 1757.

Today We Celebrate

HISTORY THIS DATE.

In the year 928 Pope John I was suffocated in prison. This occurred on July 2. John I is generally considered to have been a stronger military leader than church leader, for he led an army against the Turks and utterly defeated them in battle. On the same date in the year 1296, John Balliol abdicated at Kincardin. For three years he had the Tower of London and a circuit around its walls for twenty miles for his possession. In 1299 he was permitted to retire to Normandy, forgotten, six years afterwards. On the second of July, 1776, the resolution was passed by congress declaring the North American colonies independent. On this day in the year 1800, the bill for the union of Great Britain and Ireland was signed by King George. The United States and Austria were on the verge of war on July 2, 1853, over an incident at Smyrna. The American and Austrian consuls at that place got into a controversy over one Martin Kostza, an Austrian refugee. Captain Ingraham, of the American sloop of war St. Louis, hearing of the design of the Austrian consul to convey Kostza to Trieste, demanded his surrender and brought his guns to bear on the Austrian brig. A compromise was effected by delivering Kostza to the French consul.

HOMEOPATHY.

The first homeopathic physician and the founder of that school of medicine, was Dr. Christian Friedrich Samuel Hahnemann, who was born in Saxony in 1755, and died in Paris 82 years ago today, July 2, 1843. He was engaged in the regular practice of medicine in a little village near Leipzig when he began to doubt the efficacy of the methods of treating disease then in vogue. After several years spent in study and investigations, he was convinced that in all instances the medicines which had cured had produced a very similar condition in healthy persons to that it had relieved.

In 1796, he published his conclusions, on which were based the principle of Similia similibus curantur, or "similar things are cured by similar things." Of course, like all the pioneers, he began to suffer at once the persecution which seems to be the portion of all that think ahead of their day, and in 1821, he was forced to leave Leipzig on account of the prosecution of the apothecaries. He retired to Kothlen where he was under the protection of a progressive and liberal minded duke. Sick folks from all over the world visited him there and he gained many followers from among the physicians of the old school. His latter and happier years were spent in Paris, where he died.

LARA.

Lara was a native of Assisi in Italy, of respectable parentage. She early in years devoted herself to a religious and secluded life, her example being followed by her sister Agnes and other female friends. She obtained from St. Francis d'Assisi the Church of Damain and became abbess of a new order of nuns, which she there established. She died in 1193, aged 100, and was canonized by Pope Alexander IV.

TWO DRINKS that celebrate one day

Clicquot Club Ginger Ale, Regular, is the dashing, full-flavored, martial beverage that is celebrating its fortieth glorious Fourth. Clicquot Club Pale Dry gives you the subtle exhilaration of a milder, drier drink, with a delicacy of flavor that is still real ginger ale. Each is blended with that just right quantity and quality of pure water and pure fruit flavors that properly sets off the tingling refreshment of real ginger ale. It takes time to make as good a ginger ale as Clicquot Club. It takes that subtle, artful skill in blending that has produced the drink that first taught America what real ginger ale tastes like. Here it is—Clicquot Club Ginger Ale, in two flavors, with two full glasses in every pint bottle, with the one ingredient that no one else can put into bottles—the forty years of knowing how to make good drinks the Clicquot Club way. Conditions Good At City Home

Local Committee of State Charities Aid Association Inspects Institution and Makes Favorable Report—Public Takes Active Interest.

Mrs. William N. Fessenden and Mrs. Thomas J. Hickey, comprising a committee of the Ulster County Branch of the State Charities Aid Association, have made their annual report on conditions at the City Home, as follows:

E. E. Fessenden, president Ulster County Chapter State Charities Aid Association:

Your committee on visiting the City Home paid their annual visit on the evening of June 29, 1923.

There are now 36 inmates, 21 male, 15 female. Of the men the youngest is 34, oldest, 90.

Nationality—16 U. S., 2 German, 1 Irish, 1 Scotch, 1 Polish.

Religion—12 Protestant, 9 Roman Catholic.

Women—15, the youngest 50 years, oldest 93.

Nationality—10 U. S., 2 German, 3 Irish.

One inmate partly paralyzed, one in wheel chair. One partly blind, must be fed and especially cared for.

A Protestant minister or lay preacher holds service every Sunday or is supplemented by the Christian Endeavor Society. One of the Roman Catholic priests visits the Catholic inmates monthly. Those men and women of the Catholic faith who are able to go to Mass are taken there on Sunday by Mr. Gorman and the United Catholic Charities send a car.

The doctor makes frequent visits and is on call. Severe cases are treated at one of the city hospitals. No deaths since January first of this year.

Ventilation is by means of open windows, screened.

Heat from steam heating plant. Water supply is the same as Kingston city—Sawkill reservoir.

Sewerage—Natural drain pipes convey waste through pipes to a crevice in the earth where it disappears in a bottomless pit.

Improvements—Several rooms painted, 2 dozen new beds and 2 dozen new mattresses.

Modern well equipped laundry. Paid employee to run engine for washing machine, extractor, tubs and mangle. Some of the inmates, able and willing assist in the laundry and with outside work.

A competent man runs the farm and is under salary. Enough vegetables raised to supply needs of Home. Potatoes, spinach, peas, beans, cabbage, onions, beets, lettuce, corn, asparagus, tomatoes also apples, pears, cherries, strawberries, raspberries in season.

Breakfast served at 8 consists of cereal, milk, potatoes warmed in milk, coffee, bread and butter.

Dinner—Potatoes, vegetables, meat, bread and butter, coffee.

Supper—Cornmeal, milk, bread, butter, tea and fruit. On Sunday two meals are served with lunch of crackers and milk at 11 and the addition of pudding or ice cream on Sunday for dinner.

Men and women eat at different times. Women knit, sew patch work, cut rags for rugs that are worn and put on floor beside beds making a very pleasing, colorful spot in the rooms that are always clean and orderly.

Amusement is furnished frequently through the year especially during the winter. Various organizations vie with one another to brighten the lives of these less fortunate shut ins.

A State Inspector declared that no other State Institution had so much amusement furnished the inmates by the community at large.

We found the same kindly interest manifested by the superintendent and his good wife in the welfare of their charges.

GOOD ROADS

MODERN HIGHWAYS IN MOTION PICTURE

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The achievements of the Western road builder in battering down gigantic barriers and overcoming seemingly insurmountable obstacles to make accessible to the public the natural wonders of the West and to aid development of Western communities through the medium of modern highways is the story told in a new United States Department of Agriculture motion picture, "The Road Goes Through!"

This film, replete with spectacular road construction shots, with the scenic grandeur of the national forests as the background, shows roads being cut through the giant timbers of the Mt. Baker National forest, blasted through walls of solid rock along the precipitous shores of Lake Crescent on the Olympic peninsula of Washington and cleared through the tangled mass of trees blown down by heavy winds in the now famous Olympic storm zone; carved into the ledges of precipices a thousand feet above the blue waters of the Pacific along the route of the Roosevelt Memorial road in Oregon; bridged over roaring glacial torrents on the vertical sides of Mt. Hood, and the building of a road over historic Donner pass, California.

"The Road Goes Through!" reaches its climax in scenes devoted to the Cuyama project in southern California where the task of piercing this valley became the heaviest construction job in the West. Here the highway engineer found himself facing every problem known to the road builder, and many new ones—but breaking down barrier after barrier, the skill and ingenuity of the engineer triumphed and the Cuyama road went through!

"The Road Goes Through!" is one reel in length. Copies may be borrowed for short periods, or may be purchased at the laboratory charge. A complete list of the department's films, with information on the method of distributing them, is given in Miscellaneous Circular 27, which may be obtained, as long as the supply lasts, on application to the department at Washington.

Public Wants Highways as Traffic Increases

We have made some progress along the way toward complete improvement of the highways of this country in the last ten years. The statistics give us credit for more than 400,000 miles of surfaced road, and nearly all of it has been improved within a decade. Perhaps it is time to ask the doughboy's question: Where do we go from here?

One thing is certain, and that is that we are going to have better roads in this country. The public demands them. There has been manifest of late some reaction against the expenditure of public funds for roads. There can be no avoiding that expenditure. With more than 15,000,000 motor vehicles now operating on our highways, additional mileage of improved highways and the maintenance of those already improved is a huge work that can neither be laid aside nor neglected, says a report of the federal bureau of public roads. The cost of operating and maintaining these motor vehicles on the highways in their present condition will be greater than the cost of improving and maintaining the roadways so that they will be equal to the traffic demands.

In other words, with the number of motor vehicles now in operation, the public at large will pay in other ways a sum greater than the cost of improved highways if we do not improve the highways. Unless the states build them the locality must, and the voice of experience proclaims it a very foolish thing for the people of state to decide not to support an adequate program of state road building as a means of decreasing taxes, because it is much more likely to increase taxes.

This recalls President Coolidge's declaration: "No expenditure of public money contributes so much to the national wealth as for building good roads."

Roads Hold China Back

It is estimated, according to the Department of Commerce, that there are 8,524 passenger cars, 1,150 trucks and 942 motor cycles registered in China. Definite statements relating to the extent of the Chinese market are difficult in view of the absence of central statistical bureaus and the number of widely separated cities, each having its own peculiarities.

Chinese development is being retarded by the lack of transportation. When the country has a system of highways, automobile vehicles will be a great factor in developing China into a modern industrial nation.

Cost of Transportation

California is spreading the gospel of free and let live on the highways. Billboards along the state roads carry these mild exhortations so that be who drives may read:

"Look before you weep."

"This is a good road. It will cost you money to burn it up."

"Don't speed. Slow. Good morning."

"Don't drink and kill."

"Look out. You may meet a fool around the corner."

Andy the Ashman asserts

ANDY is an authority on back-door gossip. And his profession gives him a good line on the kind of heaters folks use. "It's a funny thing," opined Andy solemnly, "what different amounts of fuel people burn winters. The Gigleys used three tons more in the Lanes and their houses is twins. The only way I kin figger it out is that the Lanes has a Thatcher Boiler. I hear coal's goin' up considerable, this Fall."

THE special "Staggered Fire Travel" of the Thatcher Round Boiler puts the smoke and gases to work heating the house instead of allowing them to go to waste up the chimney. This method causes the direct heat to pass between and over every part of the section.

Prestige & Profit

Goods advertised in newspapers are superior to non-advertised goods!

This is the conclusion of a Better Business Bureau that has been checking up newspaper advertising in an Eastern city.

Careful comparisons were made of advertised goods and similar lines that were not advertised.

In 95% of the cases, the Better Business Bureau reports, the advertised articles were superior in quality to the non-advertised articles.

Good news for newspaper readers—of course, but most of them know it by experience.

How about the national advertiser who is seeking that elusive thing called "prestige"?

A manufacturer's brands are in the best company when they are in the advertising columns of the daily newspaper.

And since newspaper advertising sells goods, newspaper advertisers combine prestige with profit.

KENTUCKY HAS LARGEST CAVES

Savant Says Science Still Awaits Full Light on Caverns.

Frankfort, Ky.—The largest caves in the country, and, perhaps in the world, are found in Kentucky, according to Dr. W. D. Funkhouser, geologist at the University of Kentucky, who, with the co-operation of Dr. William House Jullison, state geologist, has made exhaustive studies over several years.

Doctor Funkhouser said Kentucky was neglecting a great opportunity to "bring to light important data which have been for years within our reach, but for which we have neglected even to search."

Doctor Funkhouser was Governor Field's scientific representative at the time of the Floyd Collins tragedy at Sand cave. The military court of inquiry, appointed by the governor, has declared Mammoth cave, for the establishing of which as a national park a movement is under foot, and other caves "are safer than Main street."

Extent is Problematical. Mentioning Mammoth cave, Crystal cave, Onyx cave, Colossal cavern, Horse cave, and Grand cave, Doctor Funkhouser said "none of these caves has been entirely explored and their extent is problematical. Most of them extend for miles under the surface of the earth—passage after passage, chamber after chamber."

In virtually all parts of the state, wherever limestone of any thickness and purity occurs near the surface, the men have found large, subterranean caverns, besides thousands of smaller caves and "sinks," which often are the entrance to caves.

"Most of these caves have been formed by the dissolving out of the beds of soluble limestones by underground waters."

"They are inhabited today by foxes, coons, skunks and bats," Doctor Funkhouser said, "and are used as places of habitation by snakes, lizards and hosts of lower forms. In former years bears and wolves made them their homes. Today the cattle seek the cool mouths of the caves to escape the heat and flies; 100 or more years ago the buffalo used them for the same purpose, as is testified by their bones."

Have Fauna of Their Own. "The caves also have a very interesting fauna of their own, consisting of blind fish, blind crickets, blind crayfish, peculiar spiders and distinct species of salamanders."

Rock houses, or great overhanging ledges of rock, which, like caves, afford animal shelter, were likened to those in France and Spain as having the "most satisfactory evidences of the existence of primitive man during the glacial period," and it has been pointed out that Kentucky occupies in this country the same position relative to the southern ice limit as do those countries in Europe, thus suggesting that similar archaeological data might be obtained by a study of the caves.

Arabic Has 6,000 Words About "Ship of Desert"

London.—In the Arabic language there are nearly 6,000 words descriptive of the camel and its various uses, according to Lieut. Col. H. F. Jacob, formerly in Cairo as political advisor to Lord Allenby, British high commissioner in Egypt, who lectured here recently.

Colonel Jacob told of being captured by tribesmen while proceeding to Santa, capital of the Iman Yahya, as envoy to that monarch. The tribesmen kept the colonel prisoner four months. They feared he intended completing a treaty which would place the entire country under the Iman's sway. The British government offered $250,000 for his ransom, which the tribesmen scorned, and eventually he got away by concluding a temporary agreement with them.

In his description of Arabic and its connection with the camel, Colonel Jacob asserted the guttural sounds of that language were said by scientists to have been derived from the gurglings of the beast of burden of the desert.

Claims Moving Pictures Cure for Seasickness

Hollywood, Cal.—The boyish type the filming of moving pictures for exhibition on ocean passenger liners as a cure for seasickness among passengers is being conducted here by Robert G. Vignola, a director. The cause of seasickness, the director contends, is largely visual, due to the shifting planes which characterize the motion of a ship. The larger ocean passenger carriers are now equipped with exhibition cameras and screens, and it is Vignola's belief that pictures can be made for exhibition on shipboard which will counteract the effect of the ship's motion and save the most susceptible passengers from the horrors of "mal de mer."

SCHOOL LIGHTING SERIOUS PROBLEM

Improved Standards Needed in Both Cities and Rural Districts.

New York—Dimly-lighted schoolhouses hinder child progress and swell the ranks of the nation's eye defectives, Guy A. Henry, general director of the Eyesight Conservation Council of America, said recently. Poor illumination is general in the school buildings of this country, according to Mr. Henry, disclosing faults common both in the large centers of population and in the rural regions. Surprising defects, he said, were revealed in the cities.

"It is conceded," he declared, "that unfavorable school lighting is a contributory source of defective vision. While the measure of damage thus inflicted cannot be determined with accuracy, still it is possible to say that in itself it is sufficiently large to warrant remedial action."

For the guidance of school and home, the council has just completed a popular interpretation of the American Standard Code of Lighting School Buildings prepared under the joint sponsorship of the Illuminating Engineering society and the American Institute of Architects, and approved by the American Engineering Standards committee.

Facilities Need Improving.

"Surveys of the physical equipment of school systems made in different parts of the country show almost invariably that the natural lighting facilities need improving and that adequate artificial illumination is almost entirely lacking," Mr. Henry continued.

"The principal reason for this condition is that many school buildings were built years ago when the importance and value of proper lighting were not appreciated, and the science and art of lighting were very imperfect. This is particularly true in rural school districts, but exists to a surprising extent in many cities. Even some of our more modern school buildings have been planned without giving proper consideration to the arrangement of windows, the amount of window area or the installation of adequate artificial lighting."

Advantages to children of good lighting, experts assert, are reduction of eyestrain, greater capacity for work and for concentration, greater accuracy and neatness, and greater comfort and contentment, as a result of more cheerful surroundings.

"Eyesight conservation of school children," Mr. Henry said, "is a problem of great national importance. Improper lighting is one of the direct causes of eyestrain which in turn produces harmful results. Every effort should be made to improve the lighting facilities of our schools that all children will enjoy equal advantages of normal physical and mental development. It is highly essential that the lighting, both natural and artificial, of school buildings be in accordance with approved standards."

"Recently there have been greater demands in schools not only for improved daylight facilities, but for modern systems of artificial lighting. Schoolhouse construction has not kept pace with the increase in the school population and the extension of the curriculum."

Two Sessions a Day.

"As a result many schools have been forced to conduct two sessions a day in order to take care of classes. In the winter months especially this means that artificial light will be used several hours each day. Also school buildings are being utilized more and more extensively for public gatherings, entertainments and night-school purposes."

"On cloudy days and in classrooms where it is not possible to secure sufficient window area, artificial illumination should be available to supplement the daylight. This is necessary as a safety measure in dark corridors, cloak rooms and stairways."

"The improved standards of lighting established as a result of the rapid development in the art of lighting in recent years must be considered. Systems and facilities that were considered adequate a few years ago are now regarded as obsolete, even though the equipment may be in good condition."

"Business interests have found it worth while to provide lighting installations according to the latest approved standard for industrial workers; it is certainly even more important to give consideration to the workrooms of children."

The lighting of school buildings, it was said, is far below the standard prevailing in industrial establishments. In Cleveland, Ohio, the school board made a survey of 122 school buildings and found that 74 buildings were inadequately lighted.

Correct school lighting is said to be accomplished by controlling daylight, by proper artificial light, and by avoidance of glaring reflection. Diffusion of light is called the most difficult problem confronting lighting experts. Design and location of buildings are regarded as vital factors.

The new code of school lighting is said to represent the combined efforts of lighting, building, educational, health, and social agencies. The popular version of the code just issued by the Eyesight Conservation Council was prepared by a subcommittee of the national committee of the American Engineering Standards committee.

Denies Lincoln Slayer Was Shot

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Kokomo, Ind., July 2.—John Wilkes Booth, assassin of Abraham Lincoln, lived for forty years after his crime, according to the Rev. John Wesley Potter, local pastor.

The man shot in Garrett's barn on the night of April 26, 1865, twelve days after the assassination of Lincoln, and who died before dawn on the front porch of the Garrett home, was not Booth, the pastor declared.

"The man who was killed was Gerald (Ruddy) Roby, one of the several persons who were assisting Booth to escape," the Rev. Potter said. "Booth escaped, fled beyond the Mississippi River into Texas and thence into South American countries, finally returning to the United States, living at various places, and committed suicide in Enid, Okla., in 1903, almost forty years after Lincoln was shot."

His only object in giving to the public the result of his long investigation into the matter was "to make it possible to teach truthful history in the schools and elsewhere," Pastor Potter asserted.

Kerhonkson Has A Board of Trade

Kerhonkson, July 2.—The business men of this village have at last determined to place Kerhonkson more prominently on the map, not only of Ulster county but of the Empire State.

At a meeting attended by them and by other live-wire residents at the Indian Valley Inn, Tuesday evening, June 30, a board of trade was organized for the purpose of developing and improving Kerhonkson in every way possible. The village is to be lighted by electricity and it was decided to hold a block party some time during the month of July. Ground has been broken for a high school to cost $65,000 which will be erected on the knoll back of the Arcadia Garage.

The following were elected officers of the board of trade: Perley C. Morse, president, Howard Humiston, vice president, Selah Terwilliger, secretary, Charles Stokes, treasurer. About 50 members are registered with the board. Another meeting will be held on Monday evening, July 6, at Indian Valley Inn.

POULTRY

FORCED PULLETS ARE BEST EGG PRODUCERS

James E. Rice of the Cornell university experiment station issued a bulletin relative to the possibilities of feeding early hatched pullets during the summer by retarded or forced feeding.

By retarding is meant the idea that feeding is necessary during the late summer to check the early tendency of laying, with the hope of getting a larger egg yield in the early winter.

By forced feeding is meant the giving of a rich stimulating mash to induce egg production.

Concerning the results of his work Mr. Rice has certain findings drawn from data which are submitted below:

1. Forced pullets made a better profit than retarded pullets.

2. Forced pullets ate less food per hen at less cost per hen than retarded pullets.

3. Forced pullets produced more eggs of a larger size, at less cost per dozen than retarded pullets.

4. Forced pullets produced more eggs during early winter than retarded pullets.

5. Forced pullets have better hatching results of eggs than retarded pullets.

6. Forced pullets made a better percentage of gain in weight than retarded pullets.

7. Forced pullets showed less broodiness than retarded pullets.

8. Forced pullets had less mortality than retarded pullets.

9. Forced pullets showed better vigor than retarded pullets.

10. Forced pullets showed the first nature molt earlier than retarded pullets.

11. Retarded pullets gave better fertility of eggs than forced pullets.

12. Hopper fed dry mash gave better results in gain of weight, production of eggs, gain in weight of eggs, hatching power of eggs, days lost in molting, mortality, health and profit per hen, than wet mash.

13. Wet mash and grain-fed pullets consumed slightly less food at less cost, and produced eggs at slightly less cost per dozen than dry mash and grain-fed pullets.

14. Wet mash and grain-fed pullets produced slightly larger eggs of slightly better fertility, and showed less broodiness than dry mash and grain-fed pullets.

16. Hopper-fed pullets ate more than hand fed pullets.

17. Pullets having whole grain ate more grit and shell than those having a proportion of ground grain.

18. Pullets fed on grain were more inclined to develop bad habits than those having a mash.

19. Earliest producers did not give as many eggs in early winter.

20. Early layers gained as rapidly in weight as those beginning later to lay.

21. Fertility made by slight difference in weight of hen and weight of egg.

22. The most prolific pullets did not always lay earliest.

Give Pullets Best Feed and Careful Attention

"The success of the poultryman is measured very largely by the quality of the pullets with which he replenishes his flock," says Martin Decker, poultry research specialist at the New Jersey agricultural experiment station.

"Great care should be exercised to keep the pullets growing uniformly from hatching to maturity, as a check or setback will cause them to mature too late for winter laying. Development is best promoted by free range with an abundance of shade and green feed."

"We feed grain and keep mash before the growing stock continually. The mash is composed of nearly the same combination as our laying mash, but the pullets tend to begin laying too early if allowed too much of it. We must figure on having the pullets come into production about the middle of October, or before cold weather sets in."

"The pullets should be transferred to winter quarters, gradually—a few at a time. Do not put on the lights until they have become accustomed to their new surroundings. Then feed the laying flock the following rations:

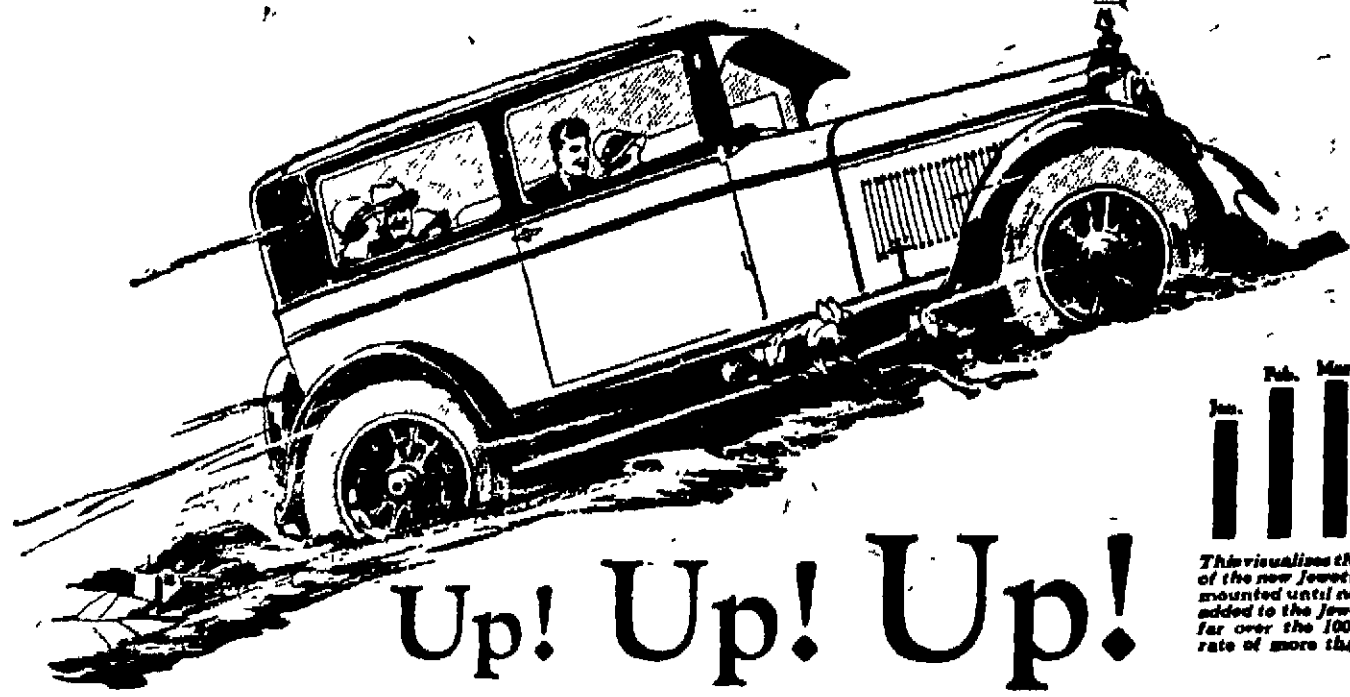

- 100 lbs. wheat bran
- 100 lbs. wheat middlings
- 100 lbs. cornmeal
- 100 lbs. ground oats
- 100 lbs. meat scrap
- Grain
- 100 lbs. wheat
- 100 lbs. cracked corn
- 100 lbs. oats

Hens Pasture Feeders

Hens are pasture feeders, though seldom considered such on many farms, in that they are fed away from good pasture. J. G. Halpin of the poultry department of the University of Wisconsin says that a heavy-laying hen will not last long unless the hens are kept in a tentative condition. Most poultry keepers find green stuff more practical than drugs. Green feed adds the necessary bulk to the ration and apparently assists in the assimilation of minerals.

Jewett Coach Sales Climb Like the Car Itself

Sales records unequalled in the history of our business. Performance records unequalled by any car in the industry.

That's an eighteen word picture of what Jewett Coach has done in just a few weeks of sensational achievement.

A Coach at $1260 with the renowned Jewett chassis—unchanged even in the slightest degree. The world knows this chassis—the industry knows it as a winner! Thousands have proved its sturdiness in year after year service. The greatest moderate price chassis ever built!

Roominess for the Wise!

A Coach $1260—with advanced features in design—that would have been welcomed a year or two from now. Wise buyers want roominess! We proved it. The shinning, small interior type of Coach is going the way of the horse and buggy. Roominess is today's demand. So Jewett built a roomy Coach. Gave it yard wide doors. And a studied seat arrangement. You enter or leave the rear with those in front undisturbed! And the proof lies in the sales. Up—up—up—because of roominess.

Style—You Bet!

In outer appearance—Jewett Coach is the ultimate in advanced design. Features that make sedans popular, Jewett Coach has in abundance. Beautifully colored in blue permanent lacquer—an ornamental double belt moulding—gracefully curved back—low-slung and long appearing. Not a square corner on it.

A Coach like this at $1260. Hardly possible to picture. Impossible to appreciate until you've spent a half hour back of the wheel. Then—as easy to understand as your a, b, c's. So easy to drive you almost forget it's a motor car you're handling. And power under your foot to outperform any car within $500 of its price.

If you want to really know the why of Jewett's Coach triumph—telephone us for a friendly demonstration. Or come in today.

Detective Kills To Save Sister

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, July 2.—William Fitzmaurice, a Pinkerton detective, shot and killed Lewis Wood, 37, in the bedroom of his sister, Miss Clara Fitzmaurice, 35, at 664 Forty-ninth street, Brooklyn, early today.

The detective and his sister were taken to police headquarters and questioned. Later a charge of homicide was placed against Fitzmaurice.

Miss Fitzmaurice was awakened by the breaking of glass in her bedroom window, according to the story told the authorities. She saw Wood coming through the window. Then, it is alleged, Wood rushed over and tried to choke her. She screamed.

Her brother, William, in a nearby room, rushed in with drawn revolver and fired twice.

Both shots struck Wood in the chest and he died almost immediately.

Fitzmaurice said that when he rushed into the bedroom he saw Wood choking his sister. He thought the man was a burglar, and fired.

The police were told that Wood had been annoying Miss Fitzmaurice with his attentions in the past. She had not seen him for about six weeks.

Miss Fitzmaurice's neck bore marks of her assailant's fingers.

Wood was married and the father of two children.

France on Same Status as Italy

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, July 2.—Emile Daeschner, the French ambassador, has been instructed to tell Secretary of State Kellogg that the French government is giving serious consideration to the adjustment of its $4,000,000,000 debt to the United States.

This move by the French government will put its debt on the same status as that of Italy, according to the view in diplomatic circles, the Italian debt conference here having only advanced to the point of a promise to pay before an adjournment was taken to draft a funding plan.

No commitments will be made by the French ambassador but he will assure the American Debt Funding Commission of France's desire to liquidate her external debts as soon as the financial reform planned by Finance Minister Caillaux is realized.

Miners Consider Proposals

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Scranton, Pa., July 2.—Disruption threatened the fourth day's sessions of the Tri-District convention of anthracite miners in Town Hall here today when, as the recommendations of the wage scale committee were being read to the assembly, Delegate Thomas Horn, Locustdale, took issue with President Golden of District No. 9, over the proposal to demand the "check off."

Horn declared the "check off" was not desired by the union members of District No. 9 and took personal issue with his president, declaring the latter had caused a strike by his failure to pay union dues.

The convention hall was in an uproar, shouts coming from all directions. Shouts of "sit down" from the quieter delegates, and orders by international President John L. Lewis, chairman of the convention, combined to finally restore order in the hall.

The check off and a ten per cent wage increase were recommended to the convention by the scale committee and were under consideration by the delegates.

LATEST NEWS OF NEW YORK STATE FARM ORGANIZATIONS

Prepared for This Paper by the New York State Farm Bureau Federation, Ithaca, N. Y.

Weather Man Tells How He Forecasts for Farmers.

The weather man's job in helping the farmer get his crop in without wetting it was explained on the radio June 29 in an interesting talk by Wilford M. Wilson, professor of Meteorology of the New York State College of Agriculture and Meteorology at the U. S. weather bureau.

Mr. Wilson stated that the farmer has a special claim to the weather man's services for the law which brought the Weather Bureau into being in 1870 specifically mentions agriculture as its beneficiaries.

"Until recently," the speaker said, "agriculture has not shared largely in its benefits, not because of any discrimination against agriculture, but because of the difficulty in reaching the farmer on the land with weather information in time to make it of value. The extension of the rural telephone and the development of the radio have changed all this. Now the farmer is easily and quickly reached."

"The farmer during the harvest season has a weather problem, clean-cut, definite, personal and important. He wants to get his crop in without getting it wet. To this end it is our job to help him as far as possible, by giving him the best available information about the coming weather; to give it to him in simple, understandable terms, and as far in advance as possible, and to get it to him quickly as the telegraph, the telephone and the radio will carry it."

The speaker said that at the close of last season a careful, statewide check-up was made on the accuracy of each class of forecasts. When the forecaster used the terms "strongly indicated" he was right 98 times out of 100 forecasts one, two and three days in advance. Forecasts, with the key word "indicated" were correct a little better than 75 times out of 100.

Over nineteen hundred farmers wrote in to the weather bureau at the close of last season and of this number 98 per cent stated that they found the forecasts helpful.

League Suggests to Members to Buy Co-operatively.

At the recent annual meeting of the Dairyman's League Cooperative association in New York city the delegates passed a resolution endorsing the efforts of the Co-operative G. L. F. exchange to lower the cost of farm supplies through capacity operation of farmer-owned facilities and suggesting that the members of the league buy their farm supplies through the co-operative agency.

The resolution read: Whereas, the experience of the G. L. F. exchange during the past three years in the co-operative purchase and manufacture of mixed dairy feed has proven conclusively that substantial savings can always be made on the cost of such feed whenever the feed mixing plant runs at capacity, therefore, be it Resolved, that the Dairyman's League Co-operative association endorse the attempt which the board of directors of the G. L. F. Exchange is now making to book capacity tonnage for its dairy feed mixing plant, and be it further Resolved, That in order to save sales expense, it is suggested to association members that they volunteer their orders to the G. L. F. feed pool to the end that capacity tonnage, with its resultant savings, may be booked with the least possible cost."

There were two thousand dairymen present at the meeting.

Vegetable Growers to Meet at Geneva.

The New York State Vegetable Growers' association will hold a summer meeting at the State Experimental Station, Geneva, July 29. The vegetable growers will meet in conjunction with the State Horticultural society and the Pennsylvania State Horticultural association.

Inspection tours of the canning crop experiments will be made. The trip will be of special importance to the vegetable growers because of the timely work now being done along vegetable lines by the experiment station staff. The majority of the growers will tour to the meeting.

It is expected that Dean Watts of the Pennsylvania State College will be present to give the address of the day. Dean Watts is an enthusiastic vegetable grower and is also contributing editor to the Market Growers' Journal.

Secretary T. H. Townsend has issued a challenge for the vegetable growers who will compete in a tag-out war with the fruit growers. Two years ago the Horticultural society out pulled the vegetable men and the latter are getting in condition to turn the tables.

Cards have been mailed to each member of the Vegetable Growers' association calling attention to July 29 as a red letter day.

Walden Team Here Tonight

Walden Plays Colonials at Fair Grounds Tonight at 8:30—Busy Schedule For Local Nine Over the Week End.

Having downed Chapple Johnston and his famous All Stars, the Colonials rated Wednesday after their 4-3 victory over the Amsterdam ball tossers. Tonight a game has been scheduled with the Walden team at the Fair Grounds. Walden is being represented by the Maybrook aggregation and has a real ball team.

This game will be called at 6:30 as usual and ought to be a real lively game. Listed among the Walden players are such semi-pro men as Grover Sheldon, Lefty Ellis, "Little Bill" Shay, Sammy Foster and other well known players.

Friday the Colonials will rest up for a double-header on Saturday, July 4th, with the Haverstraw K. of C. team. The morning game will be at 10:40 and the afternoon game at 3:30 o'clock. The Haverstraw K. of C. aggregation is one of the fast traveling semi-pro teams of the state and should give the holiday fans a good game.

The Middletown Grays will be here Sunday and although a double-header is scheduled for Sunday, it is likely that the schedule will be changed and but one game played. Four games in two days is a trifle too much for the Colonials or any other team and it is more than probable that one game will be played on Sunday.

Next Tuesday afternoon the Havana Cubans will be here. The Cubans defeated the Colonials in two games last season and this year have equally as good a team as last year. The Cubans are a fast bunch of ball tossers and play a lively game.

Thursday the Colonials will go on the road. Middletown will be their destination and the Middletown Grays will be their victims. Friday they travel again to Ticonderoga where they will play the team representing that place.

CHAMPIONS OF INTER-CHURCH HORSE SHOE.

Elmendorf Presbyterian, 50; Congregational, 13.

Elmendorf Presbyterian, 51; Congregational, 21.

This gives the first place cup to the Elmendorf Presbyterians and the second place cup to the Church of the Comforter.

The results of the series are as follows: Elmendorf Presbyterian, won one; Church of Comforter, won one; Congregational, lost two.

ONE AMERICAN LEFT IN FRENCH GOLF MEET

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Chantilly, France, July 2.—One American survived and another was eliminated this morning in the second round of the French amateur golf championship at the Chantilly Golf Club. The survivor was Eddie Van Vleet, ex-Yale athlete, who disposed of the untransplanted American, E. H. Hall, formerly of Berkeley, California, by 2 up. Hall represented the Paris Golf Club.

The eliminated invader was Cochran of Chicago, who did not give up the ghost against A. N. Vagstad, of France, until the home hole, where the Frenchman ran down his putt for a victory by 1 up.

Tagging Major League Bases

The Giants rampaged back into first place, and departing, left behind them footprints on Philadelphia's civic visage. They smote the Phils twice, 6 to 4 and 16 to 7, the latter being featured by a nine run rally in the third inning, in which "Hack" Wilson established something of a record by hitting two homers in the same inning.

Poor old George Herman Ruth was so enfeebled that he only hit two home runs while the Yankees were beating the Red Sox, 11 to 8.

Poor old George Herman. After being shut right out by Sherry Smith, 11 to 0, in the first game, the Tigers came back and got an even break with the Indians by winning the second behind excellent pitching by Stoner, 4 to 3.

In a scuffle of homers, the Pirates drove Alexander off the premises with a six run rally in the seventh and beat the Cubs, 8 to 6, Wright, Heathcote and Hartnett hitting for the circuit.

Two homers by Nels were discounted in the ninth when Stock made his fourth hit of the game off Benton, a long triple on which he scored the winning run for the Dodgers over the Braves when Padgett threw wild to third. Score 4 to 3.

Uprisings in the first and eighth innings gave the Browns an 8 to 6 decision over the White Sox.
